

SEAFOOD TRADING

- Pooling for wholesalers, suppliers and processing companies
- Top sources for the North East Atlantic
- Broad range of fresh fish and seafood
- Flexible and swift market processing

The Fischmarkt Hamburg-Altona GmbH understands itself as an intermediary between suppliers and buyers of wholesale and production business. For this purpose, we maintain an assortment of excellent quality. The ocean fish wholesale market in Hamburg is generally not a site for marketing bulk commodity, but a trading place for high-quality, sustainably caught fish and seafood.

With personal contacts which have been maintained over many years, Hamburg-Altona has been able to establish a broad and quality-oriented network with renowned Northern European supplies of fresh fish. It ensures swift communications, efficient joint activities and satisfied customers – even in the case of special requests.

Fresh deliveries of North Atlantic specialties are received several times a week from Norway, Iceland and Denmark. By pooling demand and providing the suitable local infrastructure, FMH ensures that smaller volumes are also economically viable for buyers and suppliers alike.

In addition to the basis assortment the following specialties belong to the premium products of FMH: longline fish, scallops, cod “Grand Nord”, organic salmon and seasonal Skrei. This offer is characterized by fishing with longlines or a particularly sustainable aquaculture. The scallops are harvested by hand.

Contact:

Oliver Schulz
Head of Seafood Trading
Phone: +4940 3088-7829
Mobile: +49160 97710476
E-Mail: schulz-ol@hhla.de

Fischmarkt Hamburg-Altona GmbH
Große Elbstraße 137
22767 Hamburg

Further information:

www.fischmarkt-hamburg.de